AUTHOR TALK WITH ALEX PRUD'HOMME

Some of the most significant moments in American history have occurred over meals, as U.S. presidents broke bread with friends or foe: from Thomas Jefferson's nation-building receptions in the new capital, to Richard Nixon's practiced use of chopsticks to pry open China.

Alex Prud'homme, co-author of Julia Child's memoir My Life in France, invites readers into the White House kitchen to reveal the sometimes curious tastes of twenty-six of America's most influential presidents, how their meals were prepared and by whom, and the ways their choices affected food policy around the world.
